Shooting Stars Mind Release

Shooting Stars Mind Release, memory game for mobile and the web

Montreal, Quebec, August 12th 2013 - Gaia Dream Creation has released a new memory game named "Shooting Stars Mind".

Shooting Stars Mind is a memory game where the player has to memorize the shooting stars across the sky and then reproduce the scene. The stars may fall at the left, center or right. In expert mode, the stars may fall in different directions, including the position. Players must reproduce perfectly the sequence to make it to the next level. At each level, a new star is added in addition to the previous scene to increase the difficulty level. The game also includes a variety of night skies randomly generated. This game targets gamers who like to challenge and improve their memory.

Shooting Stars Mind is available in English and French for the Web, iPad, iPhone and iPod touch. The Android version is under development and should be available shortly. More information is available on the game's web page.
